Hedland Sustainable Living Show Day returns in May!

Ever wanted to start a worm farm, make your own soap, or finally crack the recycling code? The Hedland Sustainable Living Show Day is your chance!

Returning this May to the Civic Centre Gardens and Gratwick Hall, the free event offers a packed day of eco-friendly tips, talks, and hands-on activities. It's all about helping Hedland locals live more sustainably and care for the environment.

Headlining the day is gardening expert and ABC Radio favourite Sabrina Hahn, sharing practical advice on sustainable gardening for all spaces and skill levels. She'll be joined by MC Deryn Thorpe, co-host of the All the Dirt podcast.

Explore workshops and stalls covering everything from solar power and composting to food preservation, water and energy efficiency, beekeeping, and even sustainable fashion.

There'll be plenty of giveaways too – including mango trees, worm farms, compost bins, showbags, and a community book swap to refresh your shelf without buying new.

The event is proudly presented by Care For Hedland, BHP, with support from principal show day partner, De Grey Mining.

Whether you're already on your sustainability journey or just curious, the Show Day has something for everyone.
