As a small business owner, I understand the real challenges of managing rising costs and staying sustainable. Those experiences have deepened my appreciation for the dedication and resilience within our local business community. It has also been an absolute honor to volunteer in this amazing town. Giving back is important to me because our local organisations are the heart of Hedland their success depends on the support we give them.

One of my recent achievements was serving on the committee that helped bring the community Christmas Carols to the Marina, a celebration that truly showcased our spirit, unity, and love for this place.

At the foundation of everything I do are the values that make our community strong respect, inclusion, kindness, and a shared belief in looking out for one another. When we lead with these principles, we create a place where people feel supported, valued, and proud to call Hedland home.
